

Master of Public Policy

Making a difference begins here

In a world that's constantly changing, you can still make a difference. And the Master of Public Policy (MPP) program at Oregon State University can help you get started.

With the only MPP degree program in the Pacific Northwest, OSU integrates scientific discovery and policy research with emerging public issues. This interdisciplinary program gives you the analytical skills and policy knowledge needed to make positive changes in society.

MPP Concentrations

- International policy
- Environmental policy
- Science policy
- Social policy
- Rural policy

Join a vibrant community

- OSU has more than 19,000 students from every state and 80 countries.
- OSU is the only Oregon university ranked for "very high research activity" by the Carnegie Foundation.
- With a population of 53,000, Corvallis is nationally recognized for its quality of life.
- Enjoy many choices for the arts, shopping, dining and recreation nearby.

For complete information about the MPP program, admissions, curriculum and concentrations, visit:

oregonstate.edu/cla/mpp

society policy research science environment analysis water world

OSU
Oregon State UNIVERSITY

Master of Public Policy Program
311 Gilkey Hall
Oregon State University
Corvallis, Oregon 97331
Phone: (541) 737-2811
mpp@oregonstate.edu