Attention to all authors

Participants should note that the procedures for abstract submission, registration, and hotel reservation for IIFET 2004 JAPAN are quite different from those followed at previous conferences.

1. Preparation of Abstract:

There is no change in the style of the abstract and the maximum number of words. However, we ask that you submit the abstract together with a sheet of author information to the IIFET 2004 JAPAN Secretariat. The latter is new, but it will greatly facilitate our overall planning of the 2004 conference, as well as our communications with all of you. The data will also be useful for post-conference review and preparation of the proceedings.

2. Registration:

We have asked Japan Convention Service, Inc. (JCS) to handle administrative details of IIFET 2004 JAPAN. Therefore, you are asked to send your registration form to JCS with payment of your registration and banquet fees. Three options will be available for payment, of which on-line payment will be the most convenient and easiest if you have a credit card and internet access.

3. Hotel & Tour Reservation with Payment:

Japan Travel Bureau Corp. (JTB), the largest and most reliable travel agent in Japan, will make your hotel and tour reservations, including the study tours. Therefore, you will be asked to submit hotel and tour reservation forms, with payment, through JTB. Here again, you can make use of JTB’s on-line payment system.

Should you wish to use a hotel other than those recommended by JTB, you are entirely free to do so, by contacting and dealing directly with the hotel of your choice.

4. Portal Site

For the convenience of the author/participant, we have established an internet-portal site at:

http://www.iifet2004.org/

At the above site, you can link to all websites relating to IIFET 2004 JAPAN, established by the IIFET 2004 JAPAN Secretariat, JCS, JTB, and the IIFET Secretariat. All of the information you need is available through this site. However, please be aware of that the contents of our portal site will be revised quite often. Please open our portal site frequently and click NEWS at the bottom of the portal site.

Author Information Sheet, Registration Form (Form 1), and Application Form for Hotels and Tours (Form 2) included in this document are downloadable from this portal site.

5. Highlights of IIFET 2004 JAPAN

The IIFET 2004 JAPAN conference is highlighted with two study tours and workshops in advance of the conference, several special sessions and a symposium during the course of the conference and also a post conference.
I. SPECIAL FEATURES OF IIFET 2004 JAPAN

FOREWORD

We, the organizing committee of IIFET 2004 JAPAN, are pleased to inform all of you who have been anticipating this event that the time has come to announce the 2nd call for abstracts, registration, hotel and tour reservation information. We are extremely grateful to those who have assisted us to realize our international fisheries economics conference in Tokyo. It is an epoch-making event for Japan, as such a large scale international fisheries conference has never been held in this country in the field of fisheries economics.

WHAT ARE IIFET AND JIFRS?

The International Institute of Fisheries Economics & Trade (IIFET) is the world's only global professional organization devoted to improving our understanding of all aspects of fisheries and aquaculture economics. Members include academic economists, fisheries managers, seafood industry members and international organizations. IIFET was founded in 1982; its Secretariat is hosted by the Department of Agriculture & Resources Economics, Oregon State University, USA.

The Japan International Fisheries Research Society (JIFRS) was also born in 1982, the same year as IIFET, with the aim of improving the familiarity of Japanese fisheries economists and those in fishing industries with international fisheries affairs. The UN Law of the Sea rendered this improved access to international fisheries organizations vital to the continued health and development of Japanese fisheries.

In 1991 JIFRS organized an international symposium on fisheries management in close association with the National Federation of Fisheries Cooperative Associations (ZENGYOREN) and with the participation of key members from IIFET. The symposium was very successful, and proceedings with the full records were issued.

Thus, IIFET 2004 JAPAN is the second occasion on which these two organizations collaborate to promote the sustainable growth of world fisheries.

HISTORY OF THE CONFERENCE VENUE

In 2003, we announced that the IIFET 2004 JAPAN conference would be held at the campus of Tokyo University of Fisheries (TUF). However, on October 1 of 2003, Tokyo University of Fisheries at Shinagawa and Tokyo University of Mercantile Marine at Etchu-jima merged to form a new university named "Tokyo University of Marine Science and Technology (TUMST)". Thus, IIFET 2004 JAPAN will officially be held at Shinagawa Campus of the TUMST, the same venue with a new name.

The university was founded in 1888 under the Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry. Then, in 1949, four years after World War II, it was upgraded to the status of national university under the Ministry of Education, Culture and Sports, and became known as Tokyo University of Fisheries.
In the over 115 years of its history, this is the first occasion that an international conference will be held at its campus. The university is most proud of providing its facilities to the conference and TUMST President, Professor Rikuo Takai, would like to extend his heartfelt welcome to all participants from all over the world.

OVERALL PROGRAM OF THE CONFERENCE

The program of the conference includes three components:

1. Study Tours, from July 21 to 24, 2004 (Optional)
2. Main conference with special sessions and symposium from July 26 to 29, 2004
3. Publication of a booklet on Japanese fisheries

The study tour is quite unique in comparison with many IIFET conferences. Almost all fishermen in Japan are organized into fisheries cooperative associations (FCAs). The prefecture government grants fishing rights to every FCA. The governments at both national and prefecture levels provide a variety of fisheries infra-structure facilities such as fishing ports, fish marketing facilities, ice making factories, cold storage, etc. These systems have become a great incentive for fishermen to create their own fisheries self-management system, now known as CBFM or "community-based fisheries management".

The IIFET 2004 JAPAN main conference will also provide a unique series of special sessions referring to fisheries problems prevailing in many countries in the world. At the end of the conference, there will be a symposium on the topic "What are Responsible Fisheries?" Our study tours are carefully designed to inform these special sessions and the symposium, rendering them more meaningful and useful to those previously unfamiliar with Japanese fisheries.

For this reason we sincerely encourage as many of you as possible to join the study tour, which will be guided by your expert hosts. To encourage participants to join the study tour, it has been decided that nearly a half of the travel cost will be subsidized by the organizer.

A booklet describing fisheries in Japan will be delivered to all participants upon their arrival. This publication will greatly facilitate your understanding of Japanese fisheries and enable useful and appropriate dialogue among participants during the conference.

Our travel agent will also provide many optional companion programs. Table 1 below shows the whole picture of IIFET 2004 JAPAN at a glance.

STUDY TOURS

1. Study Tour A: Fish Producing Area, July 21-23, 2004

The objectives of Study Tour A include:

(1) To understand the activities of FCAs in Japan

By visiting several FCAs, participants will learn how fishermen in Japan cooperate with each other in accordance with the articles of their own FCA with regard to resource self-management, marketing fish caught through auction, joint purchase of fishing inputs such as fuel and so forth.

(2) To understand Japanese fisheries administration and management:

By visiting Miyagi and Fukushima prefecture government, the participants will be acquainted with 1) what they have done in the past and its effects and 2) current problems and how they will be tackled in the future. The program of Study Tour A is shown in Table 2.

2. Study Tour B: Fish Consuming Area, Tokyo, July 24 (Sat.), 2004

The major objective of Study Tour B is to acquaint participants with how Japanese consumers use fish as animal protein sources, and how seriously they regard freshness and taste issues, which vary according to species. Two plan options are available for Study Tour B: please select either the "standard" or the "special" plan or both.

2.2 Special Plan for those who wish to observe an auction

The Tokyo Metropolitan Government, which manages the Tsukiji Fish Market, does not allow large groups of visitors during the busiest hours (05:00 through 09:00 a.m.). However, a group of less than three persons with a guide is acceptable. Therefore, small groups of those wishing to observe fish auctions will leave the Shinagawa Prince Hotel at 4:30 a.m. for Tsukiji Fish Market by taxi. After observing market transactions, these small groups will leave the Market for the hotel at 07:30 a.m. by taxi, returning to the hotel around 08:00 a.m.

AD-HOC WORKSHOPS ON SUNDAY, JULY 25, 2004

Ad-hoc workshops will be held on Sunday. If you have any desire to hold a workshop, please contact with Dr. Yoshiaki Matsuda: iifet2004@angel.fish.kagoshima-u.ac.jp. So far, there are two proposals as follows:

1. Developing Case Studies for Fishery Management Training

The Training Managers for 21st Century Fisheries initiative has identified the use of a "case study" approach as a potentially effective technique in the training of fishery managers. FAO/SIFAR has also been developing case study approaches and methodologies recognizing the potentially key role in lesson-learning and in informing practical approaches to more effective management. The proposed workshop would take place in Tokyo Sunday, July 25, and focus on teaching methodologies and best practices for structuring and publishing case studies which incorporate economic data, models, and analysis techniques. It will be appropriate for academic, government, industry, and stakeholder representatives. Please express your interest by answering the brief survey at http://oregonstate.edu/dept/trainfishmngr/survey.html, or contact organizer Gil Sylvia (gil.sylvia@oregonstate.edu).

2. Network Building for Establishing "Economics of Responsible Fisheries"

One of the important roles of fisheries economists in society is to develop the economics of responsible fisheries for the 21st century. We can no longer afford high administrative costs, fisheries resource depletion and environmental degradation. These very difficult and challenging issues need to be addressed to ensure sustainable and orderly fisheries development in the future. Therefore, all participants financially supported by JIFRS are requested to participate in this workshop, which will continue on July 30. All other participants are also encouraged to consider participating. Please express your interest in this workshop to Yoshiaki Matsuda at iifet2004@angel.fish.kagoshima-u.ac.jp.

(1) Opening Ceremony and Keynote Speech

As has been done in the past, there will be an opening ceremony with speeches by distinguished guests. Thereafter, a keynote speech by the FAO ADG for fisheries is planned, on the topic of the FAO concept of responsible fisheries and its development in response to the current status of world fisheries (to be confirmed).

(2) Regular Paper Presentation Sessions

Similar to past IIFET conferences, regular paper presentation sessions will be held for each sub-theme for the presentation of submitted papers, allocating approximately 20 minutes for each author (including 5 minutes for discussion, questions and answers). Several regular paper presentation sessions for different sub-topics will run concurrently.

(3) Poster Session

Similar to past IIFET conferences, a poster session will be held Monday through Wednesday, July 26-28, during the lunch break.

(4) Special Sessions

Of the 18 sub-themes listed in 1.2 above, five sub-themes indicated with asterisks (*) will be dealt with at special sessions featuring extensive panel and audience discussions, as they are key problems throughout almost all countries in the world. Special sessions will be held parallel to regular paper presentation sessions. For detail see Section 3, below.

(5) Symposium

A Symposium on Responsible Fisheries will be held on Thursday afternoon, July 29. We expect that the discussion will sum up various opinions reported during IIFET 2004 JAPAN and hopefully lead to positive and constructive suggestions for participants to consider in setting future research agendas. We encourage all of you participate in the Symposium and contribute to its success. For detail see Section 4, below.

(6) Closing Ceremony

3. Special Sessions

Special sessions will be held according to the program given in Table 4. For each special session, a chairman, a co-chairman, panelists and commentators will be selected from among participants who submit abstracts relating to those sub-topics, and a rapporteur will be assigned by the IIFET 2004 JAPAN Secretariat.

(1) Community-Based Fisheries Management (CBFM) and the Role of Fisheries Cooperatives

Japan's history of using cooperative structures with administrative and economic functions will be instructive as we look at new developments in the use of cooperatives as management mechanisms around the globe.

(2) Fisheries Management for Industrial Fisheries

This session focuses basic questions such as "Open Access or Limited Entry?" which lie at the heart of fisheries management problems around the world.

(3) Capacity Reduction through "Buyback" Programs with Special Reference to International Experience

NOAA Fisheries (the US government agency charged with fishery management) will collaborate with a Japanese co-organizer to organize this session which will include panel discussion and additional presentations on successful cases and problems with programs which attempt to "buy out" and reduce fisheries capacity around the world.
(4) International Trade of Fishery Products with Reference to Fisheries Management, Processing, Marketing and Consumption

International trade of fishery products is closely related to fisheries production, processing, marketing, and consumption, thus influencing fisheries management and seafood safety. These linkages have not always been well addressed in the past, but are increasingly important for sustainable fisheries development.

(5) Aquaculture Management

How to handle supplies of seeds and feeds, disease, environmental impacts, integrated aquaculture and seafood safety are key issues for sustainable aquaculture development. The brightness of aquaculture's future depends on whether aquaculture technology is managed responsibly.

(6) Emerging Asian Fisheries and Aquaculture

Asia represents 62% of world capture fisheries production and 91% of world aquaculture production. In particular, China's fisheries and aquaculture production and trade have grown rapidly. The same situation prevails in other Asian countries. These facts are important to consider when planning for the future of fisheries management.

Those who wish to present their papers for consideration in special sessions are requested to submit their complete papers by the end of April to the IIFET 2004 JAPAN Secretariat. These complete papers will be circulated in advance to enable participants to review them.

Special sessions will begin with an introduction by the chairman, which will be followed by presentations on the essential points of each author. Discussion among panelists/commentators may follow. Thereafter, the floor will be open for all participants. At the end of each special session, discussions will be summarized by the chairman, co-chairman and rapporteur.

4. Conference Symposium

The theme for the symposium is "What are Responsible Fisheries?" The Symposium intends to provide an impetus for all participants to further promote their study of fisheries, especially on the future of fisheries from various perspectives, as highlighted in the valuable reports presented during the 4 days of the IIFET 2004 Japan conference. After the keynote presentation by FAO staff, a panel discussion will take place among representatives of various professional viewpoints: research, resource management, industry and consumers, etc. More details on the symposium will be announced later.

Additional Functions Relating to the Conference

Pre- and Post-Conference Sessions: Optional workshops and a question-and-answer session on Japanese fisheries will be held, if adequate expressions of interest are received.
Social Events

1. A Reception will be held on Sunday afternoon, July 25 at 18:00 p.m. at the Rakusui-Kaikan (a new alumni hall) of the TUMST featuring a variety of Japanese drinks and hors d'oeuvre.

2. A Banquet will be held in the evening of July 28, featuring Japanese food and wines. However, the most fascinating event will be a concert with the use of all types of Japanese traditional instruments such as the Taiko, Shamisen, Koto, and Shakuhachi, which can be hardly seen and listened anywhere in the world.

Exhibitions

Space has been set aside at the Shinagawa campus of TUMST to display various posters, photos, books, food products, fisheries machineries, feeds, etc. Exhibitors may wish to present their own ideas to the participants, if they are willing to do so.

Companion programs

Optional tour programs for companions and conference attendees will be provided by JTB through our portal site, http://www.iifet2004.org/.

Submitted papers may be allocated to special sessions, regular paper presentation sessions, or poster sessions as appropriate.

5. Acceptance of Papers

By April 1, 2004, acceptance decisions by the Scientific Committee will be sent to authors.

6. How to Prepare Complete Paper

Information on formatting requirements for papers will be provided via the conference websites by the beginning of April 2004. These will tentatively include a 10 page limit.

7. Submission of Complete Papers for Inclusion in Proceedings

Participants who wish to have their papers included in the conference proceedings are requested to submit their complete papers (in hard copy as well as in one of the following formats by e-mail or an attached DOS formatted 3,5" floppy-disk: Text, Microsoft Word or WordPerfect) before July 19, 2004 to the IIFET 2004 Secretariat or during the period of July 26-29, 2004 to the on-site Conference Registration Desk.

8. Best Student Paper Award

To be eligible for the US $ 500 IIFET Best Student Paper award, authors must be currently enrolled in a graduate program or have completed such a program no more than 12 months before submitting the paper. Authors go through the normal abstract submission process, and in addition must submit the completed paper to the IIFET 2004 JAPAN Secretariat by May 1, 2004, accompanied by a letter of reference from the student's department chair or adviser, and a submission form, available at http://oregonstate.edu/Dept/IIFET/Japan/IIFETBestStudentPaperAward.pdf. For more information, please contact Ann.L.Shriver@oregonstate.edu.

Papers must comply with all formatting requirements of the IIFET Japan 2004 Conference, including the 10 page maximum limit. The IIFET Executive Committee will review papers and grant the award prior to the conference. The award-winning paper must be presented at the conference by its author, and must be submitted for inclusion in the conference proceedings.

9. The Yamamoto Prizes (YP)

In honor of Dr. Tadashi Yamamoto, Honorary President of the Japan International Fisheries Research Society (JIFRS), who is the greatest single contributor to IIFET Japan 2004, JIFRS will grant the Yamamoto Prizes to up to three participants, whose papers satisfy the following criteria. The winning papers shall deal with strategies for the development of responsible fisheries in the author's country, either in the form of a proposal which is feasible in his/her own country, or an assessment of a strategy or program already practiced with success. Each Yamamoto prize will be US$ 500 with a commendation certificate. Any participant from any developing country is eligible to compete for the Yamamoto Prize. The winner will present the contents of his or her full paper at the conference. The deadline for submission of complete papers will be May 1, 2004.

10. Financial Support

Prospective participants from developing countries needing financial assistance to attend are asked to send a request together with your high-quality and relevant abstract by February 15, 2004. A very limited amount of funding has been identified to provide this support and the process will be extremely competitive; you are strongly advised to explore other funding alternatives. Three special grants will be available for authors of papers on economic aspects of aquaculture, from developing countries.

The conference organizers would like to request the help of any one who may be aware of agencies, institutions, or other sources which have programs to assist developing country scientists to attend international conferences. Please contact Dr. Yoshiaki Matsuda at IIFET2004@angel.fish.kagoshima-u.ac.jp as soon as possible.
