What is an Ombuds?

An Ombuds (also "ombudsman" or “ombudsperson”) is a designated neutral who provides confidential and informal assistance to visitors on a variety of issues and concerns. Ombuds will help people to informally resolve conflict by facilitating communication between all parties to reach mutually satisfactory solutions.

Confidentiality

The Ombuds office will maintain the confidentiality of visitors, except in instances regarding threats to public safety, child abuse, imminent harm to self or others, and/or if compelled by a court of law. Speaking with an Ombuds does not constitute legal notice to the University. The Ombuds has no duty or responsibility to report incidents to any person or authority, other than as described above.

Neutrality

The Ombuds will be neutral and impartial when listening to the interests and concerns of all parties involved in a situation. The Ombuds will not take sides in any conflict, dispute, or issue.

Informality

The Ombuds will be a resource for informal dispute resolution and conflict management only. Use of the Ombuds shall be voluntary and not a required step in any grievance process, University policy, or any other situation.

Independence

The University Ombuds Office (UOO) functions independently of all other offices on campus, reporting to the President for administrative purposes.

Guiding Principles

Mission of the UOO

The University Ombuds Office (UOO) promotes a civil and inclusive campus community. The Ombuds assists with individual concerns through service and education, and serves as a change agent to address group conflict and systemic concerns. It is the goal of the Ombuds office to foster a culture of healthy, safe and open dialogue, and facilitate cooperative problem resolution.

Ombuds Will...

- Listen to all concerns and perspectives
- Facilitate communication or mediate between individuals or groups
- Value diversity
- Provide a safe and confidential place to share issues
- Assist in researching resources and options to aid in the resolution of conflict
- Remain impartial to all parties involved in a conflict
- Recommend ways to improve policies and procedures
- Assist employees and students in navigating their way through university systems

Ombuds Won’t...

- Advocate for an individual's personal position
- Breach confidentiality
- Take action without consent
- Act as a witness in a formal grievance
- Keep identifying records
- Violate university policy as part of a solution to your problem
