Hi, Sarah,

The Registrar's Office approves the use of the CLA course designator.

Thanks
Tom

Tom Watts
Associate Registrar
Oregon State University
102 Kerr Administration Building
(541) 737-9054

Hi, Tom,

Per our policy on Course Designators, I am forward this request for a new designator to you for review: http://oregonstate.edu/admin/aa/apaa/academic-programs/curriculum/curricular-policies-and-procedures#74.

I am assuming that you are still Interim Registrar and that you should be the one to receive this request.

Thank you,

Sarah

Sarah F. Williams
Curriculum Coordinator
Office of Academic Programs, Assessment, and Accreditation Oregon State University
Tel: 541-737-9560
Email: sarah.williams@oregonstate.edu

To Whom it May Concern:

The College of Liberal Arts looks to establish a new course designator under CLA in order to offer upper division undergraduate co-curricular learning opportunities. If approved, there would be courses under CLA 401-410 allowing for projects, research, internships and thesis credit that could be administered centrally in the college. These courses would be made available to students in all academic backgrounds inside and outside the College of Liberal Arts. This would be another step in support of the College of Liberal Arts recent redesign into schools and a fine example of interdisciplinarity.

One example of a way to utilize the credit would be within the new CL@SE Center. http://oregonstate.edu/ua/ncs/archives/2011/nov/osu-establishes-center-latinolatina-studies http://blogs.oregonstate.edu/researchupdate/2011/11/08/latinolatina-studies-new-center/

In order for CL@SE to offer research opportunities that may or may not be directly related to a students academic program, the CLA course designator would allow for a student to receive academic credit that would benefit their academic profile. This would remove potential hurdles for students to participate in worthy opportunities such as this. Attached is a flyer describing the Adelante Leadership program sponsored by CL@SE. In this example, students could earn credits that would be "valuable" to them no matter their curriculum and would strengthen their understanding and application of service learning.

A CLA course designator would be similar to INTL, HC, and AHE 401-410 in that it is available across the university. A precedent like this should support this CLA course designator.

Thank you for your continued support of the College of Liberal Arts, CL@SE and the pursuit of student engagement.

Louie Bottaro
Head Advisor
College of Liberal Arts
Oregon State University
Gilkey Hall 213
louie.bottaro@oregonstate.edu
541-737-0561

From: Watts, Tom
Sent: Wednesday, August 08, 2012 10:31 AM
To: Williams, Sarah
Cc: Laurence, Nancy
Subject: RE: New Course designator for CLA

Hi, Sarah,

The Registrar's Office approves the use of the CLA course designator.

Thanks
Tom

Tom Watts
Associate Registrar
Oregon State University
102 Kerr Administration Building
(541) 737-9054

From: Williams, Sarah
Sent: Monday, August 06, 2012 10:56 AM
To: Watts, Tom
Subject: FW: New Course designator for CLA
Hi, Tom,

Per our policy on Course Designators, I am forwarding this request for a new designator to you for review: http://oregonstate.edu/admin/aa/apaa/academic-programs/curriculum/curricular-policies-and-procedures#74.

I am assuming that you are still Interim Registrar and that you should be the one to receive this request.

Thank you,

Sarah

Sarah F. Williams
Curriculum Coordinator
Office of Academic Programs, Assessment, and Accreditation Oregon State University
Tel: 541-737-9560
Email: sarah.williams@oregonstate.edu

From: Bottaro, Louie
Sent: Monday, August 06, 2012 10:42 AM
To: Williams, Sarah
Subject: New Course designator for CLA

To Whom it May Concern:

The College of Liberal Arts looks to establish a new course designator under CLA in order to offer upper division undergraduate co-curricular learning opportunities. If approved, there would be courses under CLA 401-410 allowing for projects, research, internships and thesis credit that could be administered centrally in the college. These courses would be made available to students in all academic backgrounds inside and outside the College of Liberal Arts.

This would be another step in support of the College of Liberal Arts recent redesign into schools and a fine example of interdisciplinarity.

One example of a way to utilize the credit would be within the new CL@SE Center. http://oregonstate.edu/ua/ncs/archives/2011/nov/osu-establishes-center-latinolatina-studies http://blogs.oregonstate.edu/researchupdate/2011/11/08/latinolatina-studies-new-center/

In order for CL@SE to offer research opportunities that may or may not be directly related to a student's academic program, the CLA course designator would allow for a student to receive academic credit that would benefit their academic profile. This would remove potential hurdles for students to participate in worthy opportunities such as this. Attached is a flyer describing the Adelante Leadership program sponsored by CL@SE. In this example, students could earn credits that would be "valuable" to them no matter their curriculum and would strengthen their understanding and application of service learning.

A CLA course designator would be similar to INTL, HC, and AHE 401-410 in that it is available across the university. A precedent like this should support this CLA course designator.

Thank you for your continued support of the College of Liberal Arts, CL@SE and the pursuit of student engagement.

Louie Bottaro
Head Advisor, College of Liberal Arts
Oregon State University, Gilkey Hall 213
louie.bottaro@oregonstate.edu ~ 541-737-0561