Intercultural Student Services

Our vision is to nurture a welcoming and equitable academic community where the unique contributions of all members of the university community are respected, valued, and promoted.
Intercultural Student Services at Oregon State University promotes access to success for all, supporting a campus commitment to diversity with fairness and dignity. The office strengthens and creates an environment for students that fosters full participation and cultivates excellence through inclusion, diversity, equality, leadership, and cross-cultural understanding.

“Different Cultures Coming Together and Forming a Family”
Intercultural Educational Training

How to deal with negative cultural comments on campus and in the community.
Intercultural Student Services is committed to enhancing the quality of the learning environment within and across identity categories.

Our office will be engaged in co-created new ecologies with students that address the intersections of race, class, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, nationality, class, ability and religion.
Dressing up our “digs” she serves as adjunct faculty in the department of Ethnic Studies having taught classes in American Indian literature, Native American history and policy, and gender issues in Indian Country. Currently, Allison is a PhD student in Education, researching the discursive formations of post-ethnic identity(ies) in a transnational world, and holds both a B.A. and M.A. from the University of California, Los Angeles.
